

TEUTONS WEAR FORCES OUT IN VAIN ATTACKS UPON BRITONS

Daily Assaults Result In Heavy Losses In Slain and Wounded and Recover None of the Positions That Have Been Lost

BRITISH ARTILLERY IS PLAYING GREAT PART

Huns Unable To Bring Up Artillery To Support Charges; French Silence Is Admission of Some Slight Setbacks

NEW YORK, October 4.—(Associated Press)—While there is no indication in the reports from the British front that General Haig is ready to resume his offensive for the cutting of the Ostend-Lille railroad, against which he has been driving in his recent advances, yet the news from this section continues to tell of uninterrupted successes for British arms, with the Germans wasting their army corps in fruitless attempts to drive the Tommies back.

DAILY ATTACKS

Since the middle of last week, Crown Prince Rupprecht has made almost daily efforts to dislodge some portion of the new British front, directing massed attacks first against one side and then the other of the salient the Anzacs have driven into the defensive zone covering the last defensive ridge in Flanders. In these attacks the German losses have run into thousands each day, while at every point the British lines are intact and being strengthened, while the British losses have not been ten per cent of those they have inflicted on the attackers.

TERRIFIC SLAUGHTER

Watchful British gunners have time after time wrought havoc in the German infantry regiments being thrown against the British trenches, the massed artillery showering the enemy with shrapnel and high explosives, while the British infantry, from their breastworks, has mowed the shattered ranks down with rifle and machine gun fire, making the retreat as disastrous and deadly as the advance. The wastage of German manpower during the past ten days has been terrific, until the British have become almost sickened with their task of killing.

DUGOUTS ONLY REFUGE

Meanwhile, between beating back the German offensives, the British artillery keeps on steadily pounding the German trenches with their massed artillery, preventing the bringing up of German artillery to prepare the way for their infantry rushes. The only refuge left the front line Germans is in their concrete dugouts, where they must crowd when not called upon by their officers to make their forlorn hope efforts to regain some part of the territory taken by Haig in his latest advance.

Yesterday morning the German attacks were launched against the lines held by the Australians in the Polygon Wood, an attempt being made to drive a wedge in between the two hamlets held by the Colonials. This attack was preceded by a vigorous shelling of the British lines. As in all previous attacks, the advancing Germans were met by a heavy British barrage, which broke up the charge, while British infantry completed the rout by pouring bullets into the attackers, who speedily became retreaters. The assault, made in heavy force, failed to reach the British positions.

The German claims of success on Tuesday at Verdun, where the Berlin announcement stated that some of the advanced French trenches had been stormed and captured, are admitted by silence in the French communiqués, which makes no denial of the setback. Assault Broken.

Austria To Make Demand For Indemnities Unless Allies Ask Peace At Once

AMSTERDAM, October 4.—(Associated Press)—Demands for reprisal and compensation will be made by Austria unless the Entente Powers lay down arms and agree to make terms of peace at once, Premier Graf declared in a speech which is reported in despatches received last night from Budapest. Austria may be willing to yield favorable peace terms now but later she will not be, he declared. The speech was made at a dinner.

Peace without indemnities and without indemnities is possible for the Entente Powers now, if they will accept it, Graf declared, but later it will not be. Let them therefore beware and hasten to take the favorable terms which they can now secure. If they do not accept such terms, he said, Austria-Hungary will be forced to demand compensation for the further conduct of the war and payment for its costs in full.

"The great pacifist movement is impossible of accomplishment," he said, "unless every nation will give up something of what it has been asking and something of its independence for the purpose of insuring a world peace."

Graf laid special emphasis on his assertion that restricted armaments of the nations are necessary and an essential to the maintenance of a permanent peace.

GREAT DEFICIENCY BILL IS APPROVED

Senate Passes Measure Which Appropriates Seven and Three-quarters Billions

WASHINGTON, October 4.—(Associated Press)—Carrying appropriations amounting to $7,757,434,410 in cash and authorizing the making of contracts, the Urgent Deficiency Bill was yesterday passed by the senate after the briefest of debates. The vast sum was appropriated with less concern than would have been one tenth of the amount in the days before the war.

Two billions of the appropriations will go almost entirely for war purposes and in this amount is included the sums needed for the carrying out of the program that will give to the United States the greatest fleet of destroyers that the world has ever known.

There will be no examination before draft of the remainder of the registered citizens under the Selective Draft Law as suggested by the governors of various states. This plan was killed when the appropriation which would have been used to carry such physical examinations into effect was stricken from the bill.

For days upon days the various department heads were before the finance committee while that body was considering the measure that would provide necessary funds that were omitted from earlier budgets. McAdoo especially gave the committee much time. Daniels and Baker were frequently with the committee.

The appropriation of this immense sum is the beginning of the end of the war legislation of the present session and the one important bill that awaits the action of the senate is the Soldiers and Sailors Insurance Bill.

LAURIER READY TO LET ANOTHER LEAD

Aged Canadian Statesman Announces That He Is To Soon Retire From Leadership

OTTAWA, October 4.—(Associated Press)—Announcement was made by Sir Wilfrid Laurier that he purposes to resign from the leadership of the opposition Liberal party.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier has been head of the Canadian Liberals for thirty years, having been elected to such leadership in 1887. When his party won the question of conscription, Sir Wilfrid stood with the faction that opposed the draft. He was thus the leader of that faction although not a leader of the movement.

The former premier is now seventy-six years of age and feels the strain of public life upon him. He recognizes that there will be no election held in Canada during the winter and that, therefore, there is no possibility of his being called upon to head another government for the Liberal party.

GERMAN NITRATES TO COME TO AMERICA

SANTIAGO DE CHILE, October 4.—(Associated Press)—German nitrates are to go to the United States. The Chilean government has purchased all nitrates held by German business houses or German interests and thereupon made a sale of them to an American firm.

WILL RAISE FUNDS FOR MEN IN CAMPS

Three Dollars For Each Will Be Raised To Provide Recreation and Hospitality

WASHINGTON, October 4.—(Associated Press)—Soldiers and sailors in the training camps, drafted men or recruits as the case may be, are not to be permitted to want for hospitality or means of recreation and ways and means to provide for such wants have been found.

John N. Willey, a wealthy manufacturer of Toledo, Ohio, has undertaken to direct a campaign to raise a war camp community recreation fund and expects to raise for that fund a sum equivalent to three dollars for every soldier and sailor in such training camps. Men of national prominence have agreed to become associated with him in this undertaking and will devote six to eight weeks for its progress and direction.

It is announced that suitable places will be provided and conducted in communities close to the various training camps where all possible hospitality will be extended to the men who are to feel that they are there at all times welcome and where there will be ample facilities furnished to them for recreation.

TERRIBLE DISTRESS IN WAKE OF STORM

Reports From Japan Tell of Great Disaster

SHANGHAI, October 3.—(Associated Press)—According to despatches received here today, the typhoon which swept Tokyo Bay and the capital city took a toll of 183 lives. Over 200 are reported missing, and 100,000 are said to be homeless.

JAPANESE PAPERS TELL OF GREAT CASUALTIES

TOKIO, October 3.—(Special to Nippu Jiji)—So great and appalling was the disaster that Tokyo and vicinity suffered from the storm, tidal wave and flood of Monday that in Tokyo alone over 100,000 persons are known to be in direct distress. The disaster is said to be unprecedented in the history of the Japanese capital.

The death toll is hourly growing as reports from various parts of the stricken city and the nearby towns and villages pour in to the headquarters of the metropolitan police bureau. The commander of the Tokyo garrison this morning ordered the troops out the soldiers and the police forces uniting in the rescue work. The toll, as it stands at this time of writing, is as follows:

In Tokyo—Dead, 140; wounded, 170; missing, 250; houses destroyed, 150; and the people in direct distress 100,000.

In Funabashi, a town in Chiba prefecture, 20 miles from Tokyo—Dead, 200 and houses destroyed 500.

In Komatsugawa, a suburb of Tokyo—Missing, 200.

The above figures are only a partial list of the victims of the storm and flood, which is steadily increasing.

All Tokyo city and last night, electric current for lights being unavailable.

The street cars are today operating only in parts of the city where the damage was comparatively light.

NEW RECORD SET FOR CONVICTION IN MURDER CASE

Filipino Who Slew Countrywoman Found Guilty Only Nine Days After Crime Was Committed

SENTENCE WILL BE IMPOSED NEXT SATURDAY

Iremio Dogaylongod, Who Killed Mother of Girl He Loved, Faces Death On Gallows

What is probably a record in brevity of time, not only for Hawaii but for the United States, from the time of a murder to conviction by a jury, was that of the case of Iremio Dogaylongod, a Filipino, who killed Victorio Damati, a woman at Watertown, on the morning of September 24 and who was convicted yesterday by a jury in Judge Ashford's court of first degree murder, sentence to be imposed next Saturday morning at nine o'clock.

At nine days after Dogaylongod fired ten shots from his revolver at several Filipinos, two of which took fatal effect, he stood before the judge a convicted murderer, facing the gallows. It was remarkably speedy action on the part of the police, the city attorney's office and the court and jury. Within an hour after the jury retired it returned to the courtroom with the signed verdict.

Several charges which men have figured under charges of murder have been very rapid, as for instance, that of the four Filipinos sentenced to death last Saturday for the murder of Hayashihara at Kaneohe on August 21, and of Kaeha, the young Hawaiian, who less than two weeks ago shot and killed a Japanese and a Filipino the same night and who has been convicted of murder in the first degree.

For two days the case of Dogaylongod occupied the attention of the jury and was submitted to that body about four o'clock yesterday, neither A. M. Brown, for the prosecution, nor Howard J. Grace, for the defense, making addresses to the jury, the evidence having been strongly against the Filipino.

Judge Ashford took a turn in questioning one of the witnesses, particularly with reference to the revolver which the murderer used. The judge walked over to the witness stand, revolver in hand, and, through the interpreter, explained that a revolver was a weapon which had a revolving cylinder, while a pistol might not have such a cylinder and might be a toy pistol.

This latter explanation was referred to a photograph of the daughter of the woman who was killed, in which the girl was shown holding what appeared to be a revolver, but which was described by a witness as a toy pistol, and not a dangerous weapon at all.

While the judge was explaining the workings of the revolver, he pointed it in the direction of the jury, some of whom started up and called to the judge to turn it the other way. Attorney Brown assured them they were in no danger as all the caps had been ejected and the cartridges were harmless.

Sentence Saturday

The court, after Attorney Grace had noted exceptions to the verdict, announced that he would sentence the convicted man at nine o'clock tomorrow morning. This first degree murder was the charge, he will in all probability have to face death on the gallows with a number of his countrymen convicted recently of the same offense.

It was shown in the trial that Dogaylongod was smitten with the charms of the thirteen-year-old daughter of the victim, but resented the appearance as a rival of one Ilano, good looking and with more money than the other. Ascertaining that Ilano had remained overnight with the family of Victorio Damati, and later that this party was at breakfast Dogaylongod obtained a revolver, loaded it with five shells and walking to the door of the Damati rooms, demanded that Ilano leave.

This demand not being complied with, he began to shoot, and after emptying the chamber, calmly broke the gun open, filled the cylinder with more cartridges and opened fire again, two of the bullets striking and killing the Damati woman. The man fled and was later arrested.

While the trial was in progress, Attorney Brown asked some questions of Ilano concerning his relations with the young girl, and the Filipino calmly stated that he had had illicit relations with her.

After he left the witness stand Mr. Brown asked the police department to take Ilano in custody on an investigation charge, to follow up the statements made upon the witness stand, and may prefer charges today, inasmuch as the girl is only thirteen years of age.

LOSSES BY U-BOATS ARE UPON DECLINE

Last Week Smallest For Britain; Berlin Reports Greatly Exaggerate Figures

LONDON, October 4.—(Associated Press)—Week by week the toll taken of British shipping by German submarines is declining, due to the greater efficiency of the defense patrol and the more vigorous offensive being adopted against the underwater pirates.

During the week ending last night the number of ships lost through submarine attacks and from mines was below two a day, there being eleven of sixteen hundred tons and over and two smaller crafts. This is the lowest weekly loss yet recorded since the inauguration of the ruthless submarine campaign, seven months ago.

The admiralty, in its official statement of losses issued last night, announced that the aggregate losses of world shipping since the German submarine policy was put into effect last February have amounted to an average of 325,000 tons a month, or a total gross loss of 4,200,000 tons.

This is about two-thirds of what the official Berlin statement of September 1, claimed had been destroyed by submarines up to that time, the actual figures showing that the German claims were almost twice the actual tonnage sunk. The Berlin statement announced that on an average for the seven months up to September 1 900,000 tons of shipping were being destroyed and that the German submarine campaign was exceeding in its results the expectations of the German admiralty.

GERMAN Duplicity IS FURTHER SHOWN

New York Attorney General Discovers How Bribery Schemes Were Conducted

NEW YORK, October 4.—(Associated Press)—Further proof of the fact that Count von Bernstorff made of the German embassy at Washington a headquarters for the carrying on of plots against the neutrality of the United States up to the time of his dismissal have come to light, the announcement being made here yesterday by Berton Lewis, the attorney general of New York State. Coincident with the announcement comes the news from Paris that the agent of von Bernstorff in France has been arrested as a spy by the French authorities.

This agent is Bolo Pascha, a Levantine financier, who was here during a part of last year, posing as the representative of certain financial interests of the Near East. It is now known that Bolo Pascha was a German agent, working under the directions of von Bernstorff and engaged in forwarding money through to France, there to be expended in carrying on a peace propaganda.

It is stated by Attorney General Lewis that the agent succeeded in getting through various amounts aggregating $1,600,000, all of which had been supplied from the German embassy.

The details of the part played in the affair by the former envoy, now German ambassador to the Porte, have not been disclosed.

JAPAN'S ATTITUDE IS UNWELCOME TO HUNS

LONDON, October 3.—(Associated Press)—The Times in an editorial this morning commenting on Viscount Ishii's speech at the dinner tendered the Japanese war mission by Oswald Garrison Villard, famous newspaper man and author, says that "a close union between America and Japan was as unforced as unwelcome by Germany."

SATURDAY EXPECTED TO CLOSE SESSION

WASHINGTON, October 3.—(Associated Press)—It is expected by the party leaders that the extra session of congress will adjourn on Saturday, the war measure with the exception of the insurance for soldiers and sailors, being now all cleaned up. It is expected a vote on the insurance bill will be taken tomorrow, and that congress will adjourn at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

NEUTRAL NATIONS WILL FEEL PINCH OR CUT WITH HUNS

United States and Great Britain Agree No Supplies To Countries Trading With Germany

WASHINGTON, October 4.—(Associated Press)—The neutral nations of Northern Europe are to be forced to stop completely their furnishing of supplies of any kind to Germany and the demoralization of Germany when all imports are cut off is expected to result before spring.

The recent embargo order signed by King George, which brings to an end the supplying of Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Holland with any supplies which might possibly be transhipped into Germany or which might replace domestic supplies exported into Germany, was not declared until every phase of the situation had been gone over carefully at a series of grave conferences between British and American statesmen, who counted the cost of bringing this tremendous pressure upon the neutrals before a decision to carry it out was reached.

SUFFERING BOUND TO RESULT

That such an embargo will bring suffering to these affected neutrals is appreciated, because it is recognized that Scandinavia and Holland cannot continue to exist throughout the winter without drawing upon Great Britain and the United States for food stuff, but it is the firm decision of the United States and Great Britain that no longer can it be permitted to Germany to draw upon her neutral neighbors for anything. Germany is to be shut off completely and forced to subsist upon what stocks of supplies she may now possess or which she may be able to secure from her allies.

It is expected that once the neutrals who have been exporting to Germany realize that they cannot secure their necessities from any of the Allies or from the United States and that the British blockade is to be made so effective against them and against Germany that other neutrals cannot pass it, it will force them on their part to declare a flat embargo against shipments of any kind to any country.

NEUTRALS MUST PROTECT SELVES

When such an embargo is declared and guarantees given that it will be enforced, the British embargo will be modified and these nations will be able to import once more from Britain and the United States.

German pressure upon these small neutrals will be severe, it is recognized, but the neutrals must be made to appreciate that Germany cannot relieve their food necessities nor supply them with what they must have otherwise in order to exist and that no method is open for them to save themselves than by declaring an embargo against any exportations of any kind to Germany.

Great Britain and the United States are in complete agreement in the matter and are acting in concert.

COLONEL GOETHALS TO BUILD AIRCRAFT

NEW YORK, October 4.—(Associated Press)—Although Colonel Goethals is not supervising the construction of the great merchant fleet of the United States he will supervise the manufacture of air craft instead of sea craft.

Announcement was made yesterday afternoon of the election of Colonel Goethals to the presidency of the Wright-Martin Aircraft Corporation. After the meeting he announced that he would devote his time to the manufacture of war planes of which the United States stands in great need and the manufacture of which must be speeded up to meet the requirements of the plan under which America is to win control of the air for herself and her Allies.
